

Theology and Philosophy

Purpose:

The purpose of the Theology and Philosophy section is to provide a forum for exploration, analysis, clarification, and construction in topics relevant to the disciplines of systematic theology and philosophy. This will include historical investigation, along with the development of responses and constructive addition to contemporary arguments in relevant fields of scholarship. The range of this forum will also extend to consideration of the intersections between questions that are primarily philosophical in nature and those that are theological, or the application of philosophical methods, topics, and questions to theology and vice versa.
